ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is my duty to thank all those who have helped me in completing this work.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. M.S. Kallur, Reader and Chairman, Department of Studies and Research in Economics, Gulbarga University, Gulbarga without whose guidance, help and encouragement this study would not have been possible.

I thank the Indian Council of Social Sciences Research (ICSSR) New Delhi for extending me short term doctoral fellowship and thereby helping me to complete this thesis work. I also thank the Institute for Social and Economic Change [ISEC] Bangalore for providing me an opportunity for undergoing a training in Research Methodology Course in Economics in May 1988 and to Tata Institute of Social Sciences [TISS] Bombay for selecting me as a trainee of Statistical Package for Social Sciences/Personal Computers [SPSS/Pc+] in April 1992.

I acknowledge the help I received from the following libraries and thank all concerned for permitting me to utilise the facilities.

- (i) Madras Institute of Development Studies Library, Madras;
- (ii) Natesan Co-operative Training College Library, Madras;
- (iii) Library of the Department of Fisheries, Government of Tamilnadu, Madras;
- (iv) Madras University Library, Madras;
- (v) Bay of Bengal Programme Library, Madras;
- (vi) Fisheries College Library, Mangalore
- (vii) Mangalore University Library, Mangalore;
- (viii) Mysore University Library, Mysore;
- (ix) Co-operative Training College, Bangalore;
- (x) Institute for Social and Economic Change Library, Bangalore;
- (xi) Gulbarga University Library, Gulbarga;
- (xii) Vaikunth Mehta National Institute of Co-operative Management Library, Pune;
- (xiii) Pune University Library, Pune; and
- (xiv) Tata Institute of Social Sciences Library, Bombay.

I am also thankful to the following Departments and Institutions for providing me valuable material, both published and unpublished relating to my field of study.

- a) Office of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies in Karnataka (R & E Cell) Bangalore;
- b) Directorate of Fisheries, Bangalore;
- c) Karnataka Fisheries Development Corporation, Mangalore;
- d) Offices of the Deputy Registrars of Co-operative Societies of Dakshina Kannada and Uttara Kannada Districts;
- e) Food and Agricultural Organization, Rome;

- f) Bay of Bengal Programme, Madras;
- g) Institute of Development Studies, Trivendrum;
- h) The Marine Products Export Development Authority, Cochin;
- i) National Association of Fishermen, New Delhi;
- j) Akhila Karnataka Fishermen's Parishad, Mangalore;
- k) Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries Division, Government of India, New Delhi, and
- l) National Federation of Fishermen's Co-operative Ltd., New Delhi.

I have benefited immensely from the informal discussions I had with some of the officials of some of these Departments/Institutions.

Useful insights into the dynamics of the working of fisheries co-operative in Karnataka were provided by the Managements, both elected and paid, and officials of the Federations and Societies selected for sample study. I sincerely thank all of them for extending their co-operation.

I have been benefited immensely from Dr. Nageshwara Rao and Dr. H.G. Hanumappa, ISEC Bangalore; Dr. Giriappa, SBI Chair, Mangalore University; retired Prof. B.S. Saxena Bombay; Dr. G.S. Kamath and Prof. Ghatpanadi, VMNICM Pune; Dr. C.T. Kurien and Dr. Nagaraj, MIDS Madras, Prof. Shekara Idya of Mangalore and Dr. Niranjan Raj URS, Lecturer, Cooperative Training College Trivendrum for enlightening me about the evaluation of the performance of co-operative institutions.

I am extremely thankful to Sri. K.M Venkatramana Gowda, Founder President of Academy of Liberal Education Sullia, to Prof. Balachandra Gowda, Principal and to my colleagues in Nehru Memorial College Sullia, for encouraging me throughout the completion of this thesis.

I would like to express my profound gratitude to Prof. Michael, Dept. of Studies in Sanskrit, Gulbarga University and Smt. Juliana Michael for helping me in several respects to materialise this work. I am also indebted to Prof. Vasupalaiah and Dr. Ratna Vasupal for their hospitality during my stay in Madras for collection of research materials.

My wife Shaily had been consistently a source of inspiration in carrying out this research work. Apart from adjusting with the additional responsibilities on domestic side, she has typed all the preliminary drafts of this thesis. I am grateful to her for this selfless service. I must also appreciate my son Prithwisagar and daughter Pratheeksha for being very co-operative despite the fact that they missed me intermittently.

The faculty members; fellow researchers and fiends in the Department have always extended me their whole hearted help and co-operation. In particular, Dr. B.N. Nimbur, Dr. C.K. Degaonkar, Dr. H .V. Sedam, Dr. Chandkavate, Prof. Kumnoor, Prof. Rasure, Prof. Rehman, and Mr. Rajender Jogi and Mr. Duggappa have helped me immensely. I would remain ever grateful to them for their kind help. However, the responsibility for the inexactitudes that might have crept into this work should solely rest with me.

I sincerely thank Shri Shashidhar, Hi-Tech Computer Centre and Shubha Xerox Mangalore for neat typing and copying assistance. Also, I thank Sri. Chandrahasa Ullal and Sri. Gangadhara Hireguthi for supplying me the photos required in time.

Gulbarga,

January 1993.
